This is who we are!

The host organization is a sports club based in Leipzig with around 700 members across nine different sports. Its main focus is Judo, with more than 450 active Judoka. In addition, the host organization runs a large pre-school sports programme and offers adult fitness activities, especially for parents of its young athletes.

As a sports club, the host organization's primary mission is to promote sport and physical activity. It also places great value on teaching social and educational principles that are part of its philosophy, which is publicly available on its website.

Judo is the central discipline of the host organization, offered both as a recreational and performance-oriented sport. The host organization cooperates with eleven schools in Leipzig to provide regular training programmes for children and young people. In the field of Judo, the host organization is one of the largest clubs in the region and the largest Judo club in Central Germany. It is also an officially recognised "Integration through Sport" support centre, using sport as a tool to promote inclusion and community cohesion.

About the activity

The volunteers will have two main areas of responsibility. First, they will support our sports activities in the role of a coach or assistant coach. This includes helping to lead Judo training sessions, supporting other coaches on the mat and working with different age groups in a structured training environment. Second, volunteers will assist with the organisational side of our programmes. They will help plan and prepare activities for the various age groups, such as workshops, weekend seminars, cultural events, excursions and training camps. Through this dual role, volunteers will be fully integrated into both the daily training routines and the broader organisational work of the club.
